Full-Stack Web Developer with training experience at Koda Tech Academy in building web applications from the Frontend, Backend, database, to deployment. Able to build Web Applications with React.JS, Global State Management such as Redux, Tailwind CSS with Media Query that enables responsive applications on various devices and a fast and smooth user experience (UX). Able to build Backend APIs with Gin and implement Restful APIs and MVC Patterns that enable high-performance, lightweight, and minimalist APIs with middleware support and modular, clean architecture projects. Able to build databases by first designing ERDs and then creating them with PostgreSQL to create structured, visual, and efficient databases that offer high performance, strong security, scalability, and data type flexibility. Able to deploy applications on Linux and Docker servers, providing a stable, flexible, and resource-efficient foundation for infrastructure, offering application portability, environment consistency, application isolation, and deployment/startup speed. Always open to learning about future technological developments to continue solving cases that are constantly evolving over time.
